

Aposticha

On Sunday, the stichera of the Resurrection from the Octoechos, then:

Reader: Glory, in the 8th Tone:

In the church, O blessed N̄ina, / thou didst richly mingle the cup of grace / with the outpourings of the Holy Spirit; / wherefore, thine all-glorious evening festival calleth all the faithful / whom the grace of the Spirit of God / hath regenerated in the font of holy baptism. / For this cause, let all who have put on Christ praise God with hymns / and, celebrating today, let them magnify / the divinely radiant Trinity, saying thus: // O Almighty God Who hath wrought wonders, preserve us who confess Thee!

Reader: Both now and ever..., in the 6th Tone:

The radiant lamp who came forth from a barren woman, / beholding the Sun Who shone forth from the Virgin / asking for baptism in the Jordan, / cried out to Him in awe and joy: //
 "Do Thou sanctify me, O Master, by Thy divine epiphany!"
